NEW PLAYER IN FEDERAL CANNABIS COMPLIANCE PROCESS TAKES INDUSTRY BY STORM

Newly formed Ohio-based consulting firm taps into federal cannabis compliance

Cleveland, OH – Verde Compliance Partners, LLC, a newly-formed national consulting firm, plans to seize its place in the cannabis industry by providing a much-needed service not currently available to the market. Verde’s team of professionals seeks to guide cannabis growers, processors, and manufacturers through permitting, taxation, and regulatory compliance in preparation for federal legalization.

With marijuana recreationally legal in 11 states, and medically legal in 33 states, getting ready for federal compliance can put your company ahead of the curve once cannabis is federally legalized.

“With the changing landscape of legal cannabis in the United States, federal legalization is more likely than ever,” said Verde’s executive director Harry Bernstein. “Cannabis growers and processors have the opportunity to get all of their ducks in a row now and be ready for launch once federal legalization hits. Our team has the expertise and relationships to help our clients navigate through the compliance process and be first in line when that critical day comes.”

Verde’s team consists of established senior-level executives leveraging decades of unique experience and contacts in the alcohol and tobacco industries at the local, state, and federal levels. Marijuana permitting is expected to roll out similarly to these other segments, enabling Verde’s experts to guide clients through the regulatory, legal, and administrative requirements necessary to comply with current and future federal regulations.

As a full-service firm, Verde provides an initial consultation and prequalification analysis to determine a client’s eligibility for potential federal permitting and provide guidance to resolve any issues ahead of applying. In addition, a member subscription ensures that clients receive updates and advice regarding the changing cannabis landscape, as well as priority application service once federal prohibition is repealed. Lastly, the Verde team will help you complete and submit your permit application once federal regulations have been finalized.

“We believe that the cannabis industry needs to be legalized, regulated, and taxed for the safety of the general public and as an economic driver of the communities that cannabis businesses serve,” said Tony Haynes, Verde’s director of client and government relations. As the former chief of the National Revenue Center under the United States Treasury’s Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, Haynes has extensive experience in federal permitting and taxation.
